Group Of E. S. Citizens Protests Water Hike

Case 'Donation' Probe Launched On Two Fronts

By Wilmot Hercher
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—A special Senate committee got the upper hand today in an extraordinary contest for the right to investigate a $2,600 "campaign donation" spurned by Sen. Case (R-SD) during the gas bill fight.

The Senate Elections subcommittee had also launched a probe of the contribution, offered by a lawyer-lobbyist favoring the gas bill.

Case found himself in the unusual position of being asked to appear before both committees at the same time.

Charges Special Committee
He chose to appear first before the special committee, a four-man bipartisan group created by a unanimous vote of the Senate this morning. There Case was directed not to discuss the matter publicly until he testified before the committee again Friday.

Mo) expressed "the strongest personal desire to see this investigation through to the end."

Case told the Senate last Friday that he rejected the campaign contribution, and both Senate inquiries are directed at the intentions of the person or persons who offered it.

Delivered by John M. Neff
The money—25 $100 bills in an envelope—was delivered by John M. Neff, a Lexington, Neb., lawyer-lobbyist who has said there were no strings attached to it.

At its first meeting today, the special committee issued subpoenas for Neff and five other persons. They included E. J. Kahler, manager of the Sioux Falls, S. D., Argus Leader, who received the money from Neff, John Griffin, a Sioux Falls druggist with whom it was deposited for safekeeping, and three members of Case's staff.

Hennings' subcommittee also voted to hear Neff, and issued a subpoena for him to appear at a public hearing Monday.

Petitions Ask Repeal Of Ordinance

SOME 30 East Stroudsburg taxpayers last night jammed the borough council chambers—and about 200 signed petitions—in protest to a 100 percent increase in borough water rates.

The increase is necessary, council has been advised, if the borough is to embark on a $568,000 water system improvement project recommended by the engineering firm of Buck, Seifert & Jost.

Consultant's Program
The consultants have recommended construction of a new water filtration plant, diversion works in the Michael Creek watershed and acquisition of necessary land, if the quantity and quality of the borough's water supply is to be improved.

However, property owners who appeared at last night's session winced at the prospects of their water bills being doubled all in one clip.

Those signing petitions urged repeal of the ordinance boosting the rates.

However, many residents who attended the meeting seemed to be convinced by the council that the borough needs more and better water. But they voiced the hope that any improvement project could be started on a smaller basis.

Minimum Gallons
Council made it clear, however, that the consulting firm advised against starting any project which provided for less than 2-million gallons of water a day.

These facts emerged out of the two-hour discussion:

1. The proposed system would serve the needs of the community for 20 years, if meters are installed.
2. Those in attendance were divided over the question of installing meters either at the expense of the borough or the individual consumer, although it was repeatedly charged that many consumers waste water.
3. Many communities elsewhere in the State are envious of East Stroudsburg's available water supplies.
4. Some in attendance were critical of the fact that there was not sufficient publicity given to the question prior to passage of the ordinance boosting water rates. Both Chief Burgess Jesse Flory and Solicitor Charles Bensinger agreed that this was "fair criticism."

Burgess Objects
However, Burgess Flory objected that some persons soliciting names on the petitions urging repeal of the ordinance used "an undemocratic way to present the problem."

He charged that in many instances taxpayers were simply asked: "Would you rather pay $11 or $22?"

The mayor contended that those protesting the hike were saying they were not in favor of increasing water supplies or improving the quality.

Improvements Suggested
The mayor emphasized that the borough sought expert advice in an effort to solve its water problem and was not "arbitrarily raising the rates."

Moreover, Councilman Herman A. Smeitz, chairman of the water committee, disclosed that the engineers recommended additional improvements which would have necessitated another 65 per cent hike in the water rates.

At the same time, Borough Engineer Edward C. Hess explained that the problem has been building up for several years as a high iron content causes discoloration in the water itself. This condition was only aggravated by the flood.

An elderly taxpayer pointed out, however, that other municipal assessments also were going up.

"Where's the money coming from," he asked. "The heap I'm taking it from isn't growing."

Several persons present questioned the advisability of installing meters at a cost of about $20 each as a means of both preserving water and assessing property owners according to consumption.

One taxpayer said that New York City residents pay for the installation of the meters. Others appeared in favor of them being installed either at the borough's or the consumer's expense.

However, Burgess Flory suggested that those present be polled to determine if they would favor installation of meters at the expense of the individual consumer. But the question never came to a vote.

In other action, the council was asked to become a contributing member of the Mount Pocono Airport Authority.

Mollet Seeks Solution To Terrorism

By Godfrey Anderson
ALGERS, Feb. 7 (AP)—Premier Guy Mollet plunged into conferences seeking a solution to nationalist terrorism today, and opposition to his plans by French colonialists in Algeria continued to mount.

Some 6,000 persons staged an anti-Mollet demonstration in the inland city of Constantine. Although Algiers was quiet after yesterday's bitter riots, the governor banned all public gatherings and troops remained alerted.

Continues Consultations
Mollet received a stream of callers and canceled a reception to-night in order to continue his consultations. Visitors said the French premier obviously was stirred by the demonstrations which left at least 30 persons injured.

Mollet's initial meetings at the Moorish summer palace gave little indication of where he would find a solution.

Representatives of the war veterans' organizations—who form the backbone of resistance to the Algerian reforms Mollet proposes—emerged to reaffirm their insistence that no concession be made to the Algerian nationalists.

The veterans have formed a committee of public safety to push colonial views.

Negro Student Gives Alabama U. 48 Hours

Re-Entry Or Legal Action Ultimatum

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Feb. 7 (AP)—A Negro coed today gave University of Alabama officials just 48 hours to readmit her as a student.

In another development the faculty defeated by voice vote a resolution asserting the school cannot operate unless faculty and students are protected from "mob rule."

The motion was introduced at a gathering of the university's approximately 400 instructors, the second called since violent demonstrations against the university's first Negro student.

Excluded from Classes
Aurherie Lucy was excluded from classes "until further notice" by the board of trustees as a safety measure last night. Today she threatened legal action if not readmitted in 48 hours.

The faculty voted on the resolution after Dr. O. C. Carmichael, university president, explained the board's action. He said outsiders who "invaded our campus" were "largely responsible for the resulting disorder." He said the board "dared not postpone action lest greater violence" should follow.

Professor Objects
Carmichael moved adjournment but Asst. Political Science Prof. Charles D. Farris objected, saying, "I can see no reason why the faculty should be compelled to agree with the action of the board of trustees."

Farris offered a resolution asking the faculty to condemn "mob rule" at the school. The resolution said the university cannot continue to operate under such conditions with threats to faculty and students, and asked for civil or military protection for them.

The instructor said the resolution called for the university to suspend operations if these conditions could not be provided.

When Dr. Carmichael called for a vote there was both a loud chorus of "aye" and "no." He ruled the resolution was defeated by voice vote.

Prof. Fred Ogden asked "why police protection had not been more adequate at this time." He also is a member of the political science department.

Art Prof. Lawrence Calcagno said he wanted to express the personal feeling that "our university has succumbed to mob rule."

Launch $5 Million Program

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7 (AP)—An administration-backed $5 million dollar industrial development program was introduced in the Senate today with bipartisan support.

Gov. Leader said the plan is designed to reduce unemployment in the state's critical areas by making loans to industrial development agencies to pay part of the cost of building or acquiring new plants and facilities.

Revision of Earlier Plan
The new plan, the governor said, is a revision of the 20 million dollar industrial development authority proposal submitted to the General Assembly last spring.

Under the measure, backed by eight Republicans and eight Democrats, an 11-member Industrial Development Authority would be set up. The State Secretary of Commerce would be chairman of the authority and the Secretaries of Labor and Industry, Banking and Internal Affairs would be ex officio members. The governor would name the remaining seven members.

Attacks Industry Problems
The new authority, in my judgment, provides the means for an effective, joint, community-state-federal attack on the problem of industrial development," the governor said in a statement to the Legislature.

The old 20 million dollar program is now tied up in the Republican-dominated Senate.

William R. Davlin, secretary of commerce, said the major difference between the new plan and the old one is that the new measure interposes a local agency between a company and the state.

Under the former proposal the state would set up a building authority and deal directly with prospective tenants or buyers. Under the new plan the state authority only provides funds for local authorities.

Loans to Local Agencies
Under the plan the authority could make loans to non-profit local industrial development agencies of up to 30 per cent of the cost of establishment of an industrial development project.

The local agency would have to provide at least 20 per cent of the cost of the project.

Senators Hit TV Makers, Charge Fraud

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—A trio of Senate Democrats lit into radio advertisers and television set manufacturers today at a Senate Commerce Committee hearing.

Chairman Magnuson (D-Wash.) accused some radio advertisers of engaging in "false and fraudulent" practices by which, he said, "the public is bilked."

Lack "Public Service Sense"
Sen. Monroney (D-Okla.) assailed TV manufacturers, claiming their practices in making TV sets indicate they have no "sense of public service at all." He said they aren't making single sets capable of handling the two types of signal now being transmitted.

Sen. Pastore (D-RI) joined in the free swinging criticism as the committee questioned members of the Federal Communications Commission on their methods of dealing with radio and TV problems.

Much of the session was devoted to the question of something called "deintermixture."

UHF Now a Factor
Some persons contend this is the only way to solve the problems brought about by the advent of UHF—ultra high frequency signals.

In the earlier days of television, there were only 12 channels, numbered from 2 to 13. These were VHF—very high frequency channels.

But since then, UHF has come into the picture with 70 additional channels. A number of UHF stations have gone broke, however, since the majority of TV sets are not equipped to receive UHF signals.

Deintermixture means not to mix UHF and VHF stations in the same community or to unmix them where this already has occurred.

UHF Discouraged
FCC Chairman George C. McConaughy said there are now 37½ million TV sets in the country but that only seven million of these are equipped to receive UHF.

McConaughy said the commission has asked for comments on the deintermixture problem and that the FCC might make some decision within three or four months. Other commission members said, however, it might take a year.

Pastore said the public wants more television, including UHF, but shouldn't have to foot the bill for converting to UHF.

Missile Research Chief Threatens To Resign

By J. W. Davis
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Trevor Gardner was reported today to be ready to resign as chief of Air Force research, in protest against the way the guided missile program is being handled.

His detailed objections were not stated. However, on the basis of reports from friends and his own past public statements, Gardner apparently wants more attention and money devoted to research and a more exact division of missile work among the three armed services.

To See Wilson
He was reported to have gone to Miami to lay his case before Secretary of Defense Wilson, who is vacationing there. Gardner is assistant secretary of the Air Force for research and development. His immediate superior is Secretary of Air Donald Quarles.

Word of Gardner's dissatisfaction was the latest of a series of recent developments bearing directly on guided missiles. In other happenings:

Jan. 24 — The Air Force reported to the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences that the guided missile program has been "very successful" — but there is no room for complacency.

Soviets May Win
Feb. 1 — Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said the United States should bear down hard, that there is a danger "that the Soviets may fire a 1,500-mile ballistic missile before the end of this year."

Feb. 1 — Secretary Wilson announced a plan to name a special assistant for guided missiles. "I wouldn't underestimate the Russians," Wilson said, but "we've been working quite effectively on this missile business for quite a few years."

Feb. 5 — Sen. Symington (D-Mo) former Air Force secretary, said the Russians are well ahead, that they "have fired tested missiles hundreds of miles farther than anything this country has ever tested."

Gardner's nomination as assistant secretary of the Air Force was confirmed by the Senate last Feb. 28. Confirmation had been delayed in 1954 through an objection by Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa). The delay arose from Gardner's interest in the defense of J. Robert Oppenheimer, atomic scientist who was barred from official secrets by a finding that he was a security risk.

Oppenheimer Defense
There was testimony in Oppenheimer's hearings that Gardner met with a group of scientists discussing how to raise money for Oppenheimer's defense.

Last summer, Gardner told a news conference in California that the Air Force should ask for 100 to 200 million dollars more for research in the current fiscal year. Secretary Quarles later passed the word that the extra money would not be requested.

Disaster Insurance Impractical

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The U.S. Chamber of Commerce said today the administration's proposal for federal participation in a national flood and disaster insurance program won't work because flood risks are not insurable.

In a statement on behalf of the private business group, Chase M. Smith, general counsel of the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty Co. of Chicago, said:

Insurance "Unsuccessful"
"Insurance cannot be successful where the only property insured is virtually certain to become a loss."

The statement was submitted to the House Banking Committee, although Smith was unable to appear personally because of delays caused by a rail accident en route to Washington.

Smith said federal flood "relief" should not be confused with insurance.

"Congress should consider flood insurance proposals with great care before establishing an elaborate federal agency, likely to result in heavy expenditures and disappointing results," he said.

Subsidies Not Insurance
"True, government can resort to taxation and subsidies when insurance techniques do not work, but these are not insurance and should not be confused with it by name or in practice."

Other witnesses speaking for hotels and municipalities argued for government sponsorship of some form of low-cost disaster insurance.

Committee members, who have been hearing government witnesses for several weeks, have been unable to agree on the extent of federal participation or on how much to charge. Because of the risk, most private companies do not handle standard flood policies.

Farview Probe Is Under Way

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 7 (AP)—Sen. McMenamin (D-Lackawanna) took steps today to inaugurate a legislative investigation of conditions at Farview State Hospital for the Criminally Insane.

McMenamin said he will introduce a resolution in the senate next Monday to set up the probe. The resolution was prepared today but was not quite in final form when the Senate adjourned for the week.

The investigation, inspired by the escape of numerous dangerous inmates at the Wayne County institution in recent months, would be the third such legislative inquiry of the current Assembly session.

Previous investigations were made at the Laurels State Village and at the Pennsylvania training school at Morgantown.

Effective at Once
Both would be effective immediately upon final enactment but the proposed stamp receipt plan would not be put into use for 90 days after tax collections begin. That is to allow time for printing and distribution of the stamps.

Retail Sales Levy To Fall On Luxury-Type Items

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7 (AP)—A good share of the retail sales levy, proposed as the Republican part of the House's bipartisan tax program, would fall upon items commonly considered in the luxury class.

These range from such things as materials used in the construction of a swimming pool to television sets and autos. In all, seven broad classes of items would be included in the 2 per cent "selective retail tax act."

The sales proposal and another 2 per cent "gross receipts tax on hotels, eating and drinking places" were submitted today under the names of Albert E. Strauss (R-Columbia) and Allen M. Gibson (R-Warren).

Dilworth Calls For Tax Boost

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7 (AP)—Mayor Richardson Dilworth said today taxes will have to be raised to cover an approximate increase of 30 million dollars in the city budget for 1957.

The mayor will meet with City Council Feb. 21 to discuss the tax situation.

Couple Watches Girl Die While Real Parents Wait

ARNOLD, Pa., Feb. 7 (AP)—An Arnold couple disclosed today they watched a young girl die thinking she was their daughter while her real parents waited outside a hospital room.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Goldberg said they realized the little girl wasn't their daughter only a few seconds before she died yesterday in Citizens General Hospital.

Said Mrs. Goldberg:

"We Weren't Sure"
"We could only see part of her face. It didn't look like our Janie's, but we weren't sure. We thought her facial expressions were changed by the accident."

"We finally found a beret. We knew it wasn't Janie's. We then lifted the covers off the girl's face

State Moves To Ban Untrue Ads

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7 (AP)—Untrue, deceptive or misleading advertising would be declared an unfair trade practice and thus illegal under provisions of a bill cleared by the House today.

A vote of 206-1 sent the proposal to the Senate. Voting no was Maurice Banker (R-Huntingdon).

It would declare that except for innocent mistakes or typographical error the refusal of any person to sell an article at the price advertised constitutes evidence of violation.

Publication Lists Four Local Students

FOUR Monroe County students are among nearly 400 selected at the Pennsylvania State University for inclusion in the publication, "Who's in the News at Penn State."

Students who have been leaders in campus activities are selected by a special committee for listing in the publication. The booklet is published by Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity, and Theta Sigma Phi, national women's journalism honorary.

Group Selected

The Stroudsburg students named are: Jack E. Harmon, 907 Bryant St., agriculture and biological chemistry, who graduated at mid-year with scholastic average of 2.48.

Anne E. Nitsauer, of 129 Lee Ave., a sophomore in education with an average of 3.97.

Peter T. Klefer, 11 Storm St., a senior in arts and letters.

James B. Ifft, 721 Brown St., a junior in chemistry with an average of 3.79.

Tax Program For Highways Introduced

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Democratic House leaders gave clearance yesterday to a pay-as-you-go financing plan calling for $12,022,000,000 of new gasoline and highway use taxes for federal highway construction.

The tax program was immediately introduced in the House by Rep. Boggs (D-La.) and hearings were scheduled to start Feb. 15 before the House Ways and Means Committee.

The bill provides for increased fuel, truck and tire taxes to pay the federal share of an interstate super-highway program costing some $1 1/2 billion dollars in federal and state funds.

The rates contained in the Democratic-sponsored financing measure call for these new and increased excises:

Gasoline, diesel and special fuels —up one cent a gallon from two to three cents.

Trucks, buses and truck trailers —an increase from 8 to 10 per cent.

Tires — an across-the-board increase of five to eight cents a pound.

Camelback (retread rubber)—a new tax of three cents a pound.

Exemption is provided for farm and nonhighway vehicles, airplanes, boats and buses run by public transit operators within single metropolitan areas.

New York City Cracks Down On Poor Drivers In Battle Against Death, Injury, Destruction

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—New York City has embarked on the greatest traffic crackdown in its history.

It is a showdown battle against death, injury and destruction by automobiles.

The attack is pinpointed toward the precise cause of it all: the errant motorist.

Every possible city resource has been marshalled, and every bit of available manpower thrown into the task—from the newest police recruit up to Mayor Robert F. Wagner himself.

So far the campaign has brought some staggering statistics and some drastic steps. It also has shown some heartening results.

The necessity for the unprecedented undertaking is succinctly stated by the mayor himself:

Drastic Steps

"An alarming increase of vehicular accidents on this city's streets."

Police department figures showed that 662 persons were killed in traffic accidents on city streets during 1955. The figure is nearly 10 per cent above the previous year.

The toll of injured also rose to 45,391, about five per cent greater than in the year before. For years all figures have been moving steadily upward.

Drop in Death Rate

The all-out effort to halt the trend began with the year-end holidays, and during the month of January there was a drop in the death and injury average. However, bad weather accidents the past few days may have offset this somewhat.

Since the year began, traffic tickets have been handed out in record thousands, expected to exceed by far last year's total of 1,700,000 which brought in fines of 9 1/2 million dollars.

Traffic courts, as a result, have become so jammed the city has instituted night traffic courts.

"Scofflaws"—those ignoring summonses—are being pursued and made to pay up. Some multieticket holders have been fined thousands of dollars and jailed as well.

Almost daily, new measures are being added.

Jail Sentences

These include unmarked patrol cars; jail sentences for first convictions on drunken driving and radar devices to check auto speeds.

Put in use this week were a number of new-type patrol cars.

These vehicles are equipped with instruments for checking intoxication of drivers, detecting mechanical failures of cars and for ascertaining other causes of accidents.

Moreover, motorists aren't the only ones to feel the tightened restrictions. The jaywalker is going to have to give up his strolling habits or else.

On the whole, New Yorkers appear wholeheartedly in support of the campaign.

Beatrice, 18, On New Job

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Feb. 7 (AP)—Crown Princess Beatrix, just turned 18, took her place on the Council of State today to learn the business of a Queen.

She received a gold compact and a gold lipstick case from the foreign diplomats here as she took her seat beside the somber, 15 elderly statesmen who make up the 400-year-old council.

It's duties are to advise the government and to pass on all proposed legislation. The young princess was 18 Jan. 31.

councilmen attending, Rev. E. T. Horn, Herman Paul, Clair Wallingford, William Bond, Morgan Butz, Glenn Wallingford, Verdon Rustine, and Roy Paul, Mrs. E. T. Horn, and Mrs. Herman Paul accompanied the men and visited with Mrs. Paul. Refreshments of pie, ice cream and sandwiches and coffee were served by Mrs. Paul.

House Scheduled To Vote Thursday On State Tax Program

Both Parties Confident Of Passage

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7.—The bipartisan sales-income tax program started rolling through the House today, with leaders of both parties firmly determined on a roll call vote Thursday.

Both Rep. Readinger, Democratic floor leader, and Rep. Smith, his Republican counterpart, renewed statements of confidence there were sufficient votes from both parties to pass the entire program.

2 Per Cent Retail Tax

The two bills in the Republican program were introduced today, promptly reported out of committee and given first reading in the House. One would impose a 2 per cent retail tax on a group of specific commodities. The other would impose the same levy on meals and lodging at hotels, motels, clubs and restaurants.

Both the GOP bills were sponsored by Reps. Strasser, Columbia, and Gibson, Warren.

With three days required for a bill to reach a vote, the two GOP measures on Thursday will catch up with the 2 per cent net income tax bill, the Democratic part of the compromise program. That bill, sponsored by Readinger, has been in position for a vote for several weeks.

After Federal Deductions

The net income tax would impose the levy on net income after deductions and exemptions allowed under the federal income tax law.

The entire compromise tax program was estimated to yield 360 million dollars in the remainder of the 1955-57 biennium. A hundred million dollars in business taxes passed in the House but is still pending in the Senate would round out the tax program.

Readinger insisted the vote would be taken on Thursday and warned members if they were absent the House would require their presence.

Members' Presence Required
"If we don't have the members here, we're going to send out for them and stay in session until they are returned so that we can vote on the program," Readinger said.

Both the income and sales levies would become a permanent part of the state's tax structure upon their enactment. The 1955-56 sales tax was a temporary levy which expired Aug. 31, 1955.

By Leonard Randolph
A 16-YEAR-OLD Stroudsburg boy came back from Washington this month with a good prescription for cynicism.

If your faith in democracy needs a hypo, sit in on the processes that make the American government work.

The boy's name is Frank Radler Jr. Frank just finished a one-month tour of duty as page boy for Rep. Francis E. Walter.

Unlike a lot of adults, Frank went to Washington with an open mind. What he saw, what he heard, what he remembers is filtered through a mind that has little or no political prejudice and a lot of willingness to learn.

Liked The Work

He went to the national capital Jan. 1 to assume his temporary duties. For all Frank's concern, the work could have stretched right on through the year—he liked it, he learned a lot and he'd be happy to take on the job again.

What was it that Frank liked most about his temporary job? That would be pretty tough to tell, he says. First, probably, would be the actual business of the House of Representatives itself. Young Radler got a lot out of watching the men in the House at work. The atmosphere of the assembly somehow succeeded in arousing in him a respect for democratic argument that no civics book could quite instill.

Most of the time, while on duty, Frank was running errands, on call front any of the men in the House. There were 11 pages on the Democratic side; another five boys serviced telephone calls only. The pages carried copies of bills back and forth to the representatives, brought their mail in to them, transferred messages from one man to another.

Returned With Copies

Because he was thrown into fairly deep involvement with the legislation of the moment, Frank came out of his experience with a strong curiosity about the bills then introduced. He brought copies of as many as he could get his hands on (it's legal) back with him. He can speak with some knowledge about the President's economic report to Congress, health recommendations and the St. Lawrence Seaway report.

Away from work in the House, Frank stayed at one of the several boarding houses maintained for Congressional pages. At first he attended a special "page school" in the city. He found the school rather remarkable. ("They had just about all the subjects we have here at the high school—except German and chemistry.") Teachers at the school adjust very well to the different study processes of their charges, Frank says.

After the first week, though, Radler took advantage of a secondary opportunity—he had his own books sent from Stroudsburg, did his "homework" in Washington following the same assignments given to his classmates here. Right now he's very nearly caught up with all the work. Two more tests will do it, he said last night.

Visited Monuments

But the better part of Frank's "education" occurred outside of class and away from the House of Representatives. It came to him in the streets of Washington where the various monuments to great U.S. leaders now stand.

"It was the first time I'd ever seen them except in photographs," Frank says. "We went to the Washington monument and the Lincoln Memorial. The statue of Lincoln is really something great. It's done with a lot of precision. The guy who did that put in a lot of time on it."

And another thing: All of the men (or nearly all of them) in Congress behaved like normal, friendly human beings. They said "hello" and they talked with you when you were introduced, Frank says.

Although no one conducted a popularity poll, there's one man who seems to stand out, Frank recalls. He's James Roosevelt, serving his first term as California representative. Frank says he "didn't get a chance to talk with him much" but Roosevelt was very friendly and all the page boys seemed to like him very much.

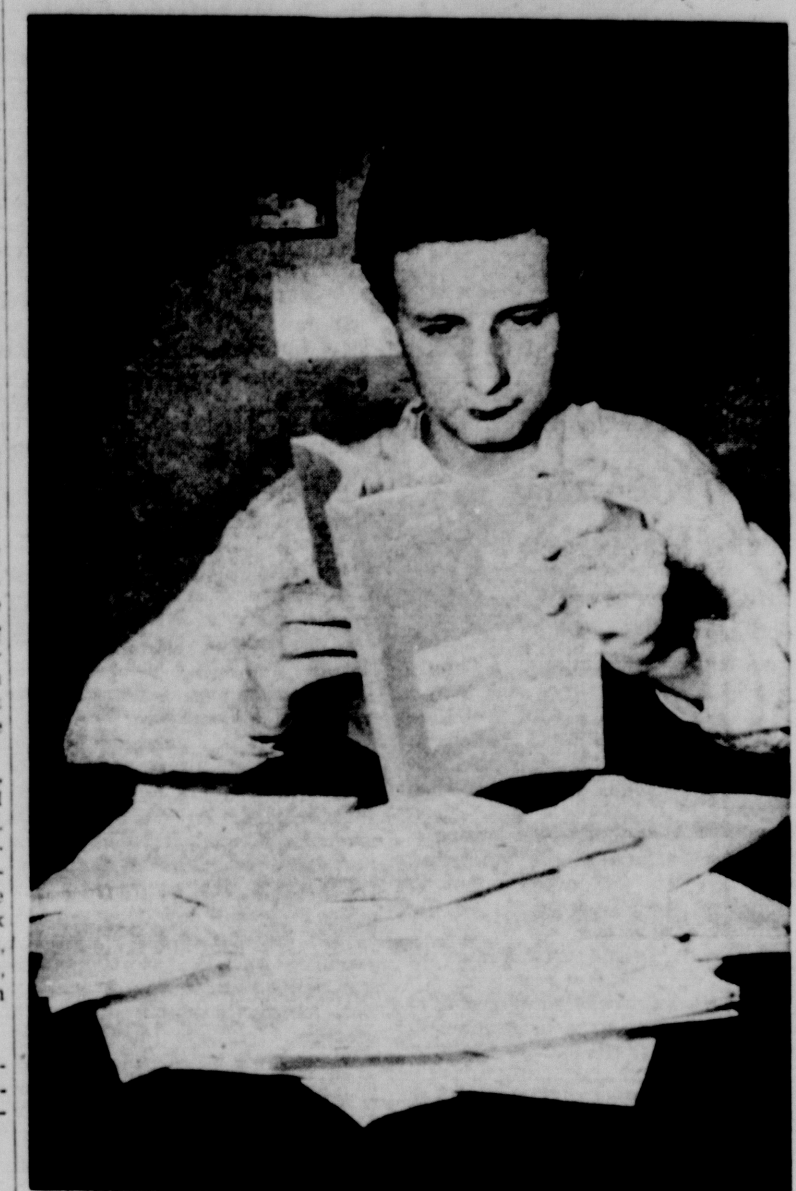

Politics Brought Home

In December (and a good many months before that) Frank had thought of politics as something remote and a little uninteresting. Today, it's a different story.

Today he can see the machinery of government in motion in his mind. Because of that there is a broader foundation for his own opinions about what happens "down in Washington," whether it's good or bad.

He thinks it's the best way in the world to teach people what government means, he says. And he'd like to take another dose of his own prescription, someday.

As a politician? Maybe. If he felt he was qualified for the job, Frank said.

SOME SENSIBLE SOUVENIRS—Frank Radler Jr., 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Radler, 97 Second St., Stroudsburg, is shown here leafing through the Economic Report of the President. It's one of a group of legislative bulletins and laws he brought back from Washington where he served as page for Rep. Walter. Others: an agricultural report, proposed amendments to the habeas corpus law, the McCarran-Walter immigration act, a report by the President's Advisory Committee on Water Resources Policy, recommendations for more medical research funds. City Planning Discussed By Club Speaker

CAL CALLAHAN, consultant with Morris, Knowles, Inc., Pittsburgh, with planning office in Easton, addressed the Stroudsburg Lions Club at the group's dinner meeting last night at the Penn-Stroud Hotel. He was introduced by Henry Wider, program chairman.

The speaker's subject was "Current Trends in City Planning."

He said that city development on the American continent has brought with it much congestion and decadence of neighborhoods, so that slums have arisen, and buildings and realty values deteriorated. This has caused bad living conditions and lowered taxable values. This situation has given rise to a demand for urban re-development and its twin, slum clearance, so that city planners now seek to redevelop blighted areas and remove sub-standard buildings.

Naturally the costs involved would be very great but Federal aid is now becoming available at the ratio of 75 to 25, the latter figure representing local "matching" appropriations. The costs include land acquisition, demolition and grading. The planning calls for making arrangements for replacing of slums with higher standard buildings.

Enabling Laws

However, even though a community seeks to obtain Federal funds in such contingency, there is no chance of its doing so unless its state has adopted state-enabling regulations. This has been done in Pennsylvania, he recalled.

Some public men have looked on urban re-development mainly as a big city proposition, the lecturer explained, but this is not a sound view inasmuch as moderate or small places might have

Triplet Ewes Born Ten Days Apart

THIS IS the story of two little lambs which stared sheepishly at the world after making a grand entrance 10 days after their triplet sister was born.

Clarence Bush of Kellersville reported that one of his ewes had a lamb one day last month. Of course, there's nothing unusual about this.

However, last Thursday — 10 days after the birth of the first lamb — the ewe had two more!

All three were females. Bush explained that he's raised sheep for the last 11 years. He's had triplets before — but never where the births have been 10 days apart.

great need due to special conditions; also communities might work through a group plan. In this case there would be a sort of hard-core of urban territory and some or many suburban places affected.

The wise course seems to be for communities to learn and list their needs, Callahan said, and this can be done by a locally constituted planning commission, which would learn and tabulate local necessities and have such information ready when needed.

Callahan added that there would be no power vested in the commission, but its findings would have the approval of law to a greater or less degree. The commission could not in any way infringe on the duties of municipal governments.

In the business session, President Seymour Katz said the annual Charter Night banquet next Tuesday night at the Penn-Stroud will begin at 6:45. He urged an intensive campaign to sell the remaining tickets.

Civil Defense, Roads, Housing Meeting Topics

A REPORT on highways, housing and how Civil Defense helps in emergencies was the main feature of last night's Industrial Management Club of Monroe County meeting.

Held in the YMCA, the dinner meeting was presided over by Del France, president. Lewis Leffler, program chairman, introduced guest speakers Claude Metzgar, Judge Fred W. Davis and Rev. R. C. Stinson.

Metzgar discussed recovery work on county highways since the flood. He noted that the Skytop road near Canadensis has now been repaired and is open. An order has been given for replacement of two washed-out bridges at Bartonsville, he said.

Judge Davis talked on the value of Civil Defense during the 1955 flood and the way in which CD county organizations are set up. Stinson reported on housing development activity in the county, pointing out that the Federal government has approved planning of 44 units in East Stroudsburg, 28 in Stroudsburg and 28 in Stroud Township.

A tour of the YMCA building was conducted after the meeting.

Rites Conducted For Mrs. May

FUNERAL SERVICES for Mrs. Cornelia H. May were held at 2:30 p.m. yesterday at Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church with Rev. John A. Bollier officiating. Pallbearers were Arlington W. Williams, Ernest H. Wyckoff, Alvan Sterner, Oscar Liljenstien, Irving W. Foltz and Dr. G. R. Collins. Interment was made in Laurelwood Cemetery.

This Community And Many Others Wait Council's Action On Harris' Challenge

Stroudsburg Council's executive session — a type of meeting with which we are totally out of sympathy because it does not let the taxpayers in on the thinking of their duly elected representatives — was a little less obnoxious than some Star Chamber sessions in that it produced no action.

Apparently, the borough fathers were planning what Sgt. Friday of Dragnet refers to as "MO", or method of operation to meet the challenge to their power to fix salaries of police or any other municipal employee.

Meanwhile, Chief Burgess Hal H. Harris who put parking meter operations in the deep freeze because borough council refused to bow to his demands for salary increases for certain police, and none for three others, continues to defy council's authority.

We can only assume that council did evolve some plan of action to meet this challenge at a meeting "later this week." We say "assume" because of the executive session which might be excused because council wants "to keep its powder dry" until the critical meeting they've planned.

There can be no assumption, however, connected with the fact that the people of Stroudsburg and many communities miles from here are carefully watching council's reaction to Chief Burgess Harris' challenge.

Coordination, Then Cooperation Needed To Solve Stream Clearance Program Here

The Department of Forests & Waters, it would seem from a report made to The Daily Record by B. D. Murphy, chief engineer of the agency, not only has the money, but has been ready and willing within the limitations of a staff shortage to clear up trees and other debris from streams involved in last August's flood.

Two conditions which are strictly up to supervisors or borough councils must be met before the department goes out, obtains a contract, assigns its own foremen and gets the work underway.

First, the municipal body must adopt a resolution to "sponsor" the project and agree to save and protect the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania from any and all damages.

Second—and this can only be done after the resolution is adopted — the municipal body approaches the property owners within the scope of the project work and obtains rights-of-entry for the Department of Forests & Waters and its contractor.

We can understand there may be some hesitation on the matter of sponsorship with an agreement to assume all claims for damages. We can understand some hesitation on the part of some property owners.

On the other hand we have reliable information that some property owners are willing and anxious to give rights-of-entry, but apparently the municipal agency has either not adopted the sponsoring resolution, or has adopted it and not moved out to get rights-of-entry waiting for them.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Hughes Case On McCarthy Points Up Fact Communist Infiltration Menace Serious

I never met Paul Hughes. He never came to offer me the insides of the McCarthy Committee, although in those days I met many men and women who set forth all sorts of claims to influence and power. There is nothing unusual in that because it appears to be a characteristic of some young persons to try to build a reputation advertising that they are really the ones who make the wheels go round. I am forever meeting men who wrote the speeches for other men and it strikes me as queer that these brilliant idea men never seem to get anywhere themselves. And then, there is always the man who has a Senator or a Cabinet officer in his left rear pocket, but it is surprising that the same Senator or Cabinet officer leaps out of the left rear pocket and does just the opposite of what the boastful fellow said he would do.

I suppose every newspaperman encounters fellows like Hughes and learns to discount them, just as "The Washington Post" editors did when the stories did not pan out. In my years of association with Senator Joe McCarthy, I have heard all sorts of stories about him and generally found that the favorable and unfavorable ones were grossly exaggerated. That is characteristic of most stories about public men; they are never as good as their press agents would have us believe and they are never as bad as their enemies would like them to be. Take away the gown or the uniform or the aura of office and most of these fellows are like the members of your family, your schoolmates or your neighbors. If one of the great gets knocked out the way I am now, the girl who sticks the needle is dealing with a child who resents being hurt.

It was stupid of the A.D.A. people to spend $10,000 to try to "get" Joe, particularly going about it the way they did. Joe McCarthy was trying to find out how the Communists infiltrated into our government and it is evidence of a totally organized office that the Communists were never able to infiltrate Joe McCarthy's office. The A.D.A. officials certainly could have got a list of those who were employed by that committee and they might have tried to tempt some of them. So far as is known, not a single one ever swiped a letter from a file.

But the question naturally asks itself: What did the A.D.A. officials believe that this man Hughes could deliver to them? What were they looking for? Actually, there was nothing that they could find that was not, in due course, published because in such an investigation, the data is developed as the hearings move forward. The files are usually empty and the counsel, particularly such a one as Roy Cohn, carries what there is to know in his head.

Hughes must have been a wonderful salesman to do Joseph Rauh out of $8,500 for information which he obviously could not deliver because it existed, he would not have known where to find it. And if he found what he looked for, it would not have been worth anything to anybody anyhow. The evils of Joe McCarthy were so exaggerated that undoubtedly Hughes could paint whatever picture he chose and there would be someone to believe that it might be possible. I have often wondered why Joe was not accused of the Guy Fawkes plot or the burning of the Reichstag.

I note from my solitary confinement that the target of all this contentions is now Senator Eastland. He is being painted as a Southern devil and I should imagine he will be given a pretty bad time of it. He has now taken on Robert Morris as counsel for his Committee. Morris making a considerable personal sacrifice out of devotion to a cause and to his country. Morris is an extraordinarily competent lawyer and investigator and nobody will even try to get anything on him because he has made himself invulnerable. He does not permit personal proclivities to interfere with his public service.

It is to be expected, therefore, that the Senate Internal Security Committee will be doing a masterly job in defense of American ideals and of American civilization. Of course, there will be those who do not believe that these investigations have anything to do with American ideals and civilization but rather with the desire of some citizens to persecute others. Even those who hate Joe McCarthy must by now recognize that Communist infiltration is a menace and that we need a technique of identification of the evil. We are probably closer to a satisfactory method today.

Again expressing my appreciation for this fine editorial, I remain,

Sincerely,
B. K. WILLIAMS

Hiring Sharp Tax Advice No Bargain For Little Guy

This is the time of the year when all the public prints break out in a rash of gratuitous advice to the beleaguered income taxpayer—on how to slice Old Whiskers' cut exceedingly thin without winding up in the hoosegow.

I have no reason to believe that most of the advice isn't sound enough, in its way. Undoubtedly all the little loopholes and by-passes known to lawyers and accountants but hidden from the eyes of the unopstipated are there, all right. And certainly the taxpayer has a right to exercise all the skill and ingenuity he can muster, within the framework of the law.

But I can't help thinking that telling ordinary citizens how to snake-hop through the tax forms like experts is a little like telling them how to invest the contents of their piggy-banks in the stock market without getting hurt.

The best way for piggy-bank investors to avoid getting hurt in the stock market is to stay out of it. By somewhat the same token, the best way for a mine-run taxpayer to get a reasonably fair shake on his taxpaying is to be himself, and trust in the mercy of God and the Federal Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Sure, he won't get all the deductions he's entitled to. But he'll get some he isn't entitled to, and he ought to come out about even over the long pull.

The Internal Revenue people have no choice but to go on the general assumption that the average taxpayer is honest—or at least that he's fearful enough of the consequences of being caught at anything crooked that he prefers not to risk them.

The revenue people also know that the average taxpayer is not any too sharp at financial matters. Think of all the experience they've had.

So I should think they'd be inclined to feel that if a man's tax return shows about the normal amount of bungling they have learned to expect, it will also reflect about the normal degree of moral integrity. In that case their inclination should be to give the poor fellow the benefit of any doubts.

But if his returns show signs of a shrewdness and cunning beyond normal expectancy they may smell a mouse. Or maybe just get their backs up.

And catch-as-catch-can ransacking with the Internal Revenue Bureau is no sport for amateurs. That's for lawyers and C.P.A.'s—and only the good ones, at that.

If everybody went into all the fine points of interpreting his tax obligations down to the exact penny there would be so many screwball interpretations that the government would need thousands more agents to check the returns. Paying those extra people would raise taxes and the taxpayer would come out holding the short end of the stick, anyway. So what the heck—

The 2 A.M. Quiet at the police precinct was shattered by a call from an inebriated motorist. "Hey, sarge," he implored, "send a squad car on the double. Crooks have broken into my new sedan and stolen the dash board and steering wheel." He called again a moment later. "My mistake, sarge," he explained weakly. "Looks like I climbed into the back seat by mistake."

Russia Rivals U.S. In Peaceful Nuclear Works

Washington, February — Russia is rivaling the U.S. in peaceful nuclear development as well as in weapons production.

One graphic illustration of this is the construction of a 100,000 kilowatt atomic power plant — and there may be others, possibly even larger.

Also, the nuclear capabilities of the satellites are now being pushed.

These are the blunt conclusions of a worldwide study just completed by staff experts of the Joint Atomic Committee. Senator Clinton Anderson (D-NM), chairman, initiated the survey last year following dissatisfaction with the Atomic Energy Commission's information in this vital subject.

The as-yet unpublished report will be the basis of a series of significant hearings, at which members of the Commission and other authorities will be interrogated on what is being done to meet this latest Red nuclear threat.

These findings particularly stand out in this revealing study: (1) "Besides its weapons program, the Soviet is building up a full-scale peaceful atomic energy industry rivaling that of the U.S. in magnitude. It involves power reactors, utilization of waste products, use of radioisotopes, and all the rest."

(2) "Russia has demonstrated a high degree of competence in the field of atomic energy, which, together with its large industrial capacity, enables it to undertake major developments in the peaceful applications of nuclear energy."

(3) "The Soviet is assisting the satellites and China in developing their atomic energy programs. This assistance includes research reactors, particle accelerators, and the training of scientific and technical personnel. Similar assistance is being offered to a number of non-Soviet bloc countries, foremost among them India, Yugoslavia and Egypt."

Lots of Atoms — Czechoslovakia, East Germany and Red China have both the materials and scientific manpower for far-reaching nuclear development.

This is strongly stressed in the Joint Committee voluminous report. It presents a country-by-country analysis of the Soviet bloc's potentialities and what is being done about them.

The study shows clearly that Russia is acting aggressively in this matter.

Following are publishable highlights from the survey: "Czechoslovakia and East Germany have sufficient raw materials and industrial and scientific manpower capabilities to develop large nuclear programs. . . . Already Czechoslovakia scientists are studying in Russia. The first group arrived in Moscow in September 1955. Construction of a reactor in Czechoslovakia should begin within a year. . . . There is no question but that Czechoslovakia is able to support a long-range program for the industrial uses of atomic energy.

"East Germany has been a major source of uranium for the Soviet atomic program, and a number of industrial firms in this satellite have provided materials and instruments for the Soviet program. There are a number of highly-trained nuclear scientists and technicians in East Germany. . . . All the resources are available for East Germany to make significant progress in atomic energy development in the next five years."

"Communist China has significant research and development capabilities. There are a small number of highly qualified nuclear scientists there. They received their advance education in the West, largely in the U.S. . . . With the promised Soviet aid, Red China should make important strides in nuclear development in the next few years."

The Joint Committee's experts say flatly Russia made an impressive showing at last summer's Geneva conference on the peaceful use of atomic energy.

"Soviet participation was characterized by a high level of scientific and technological papers," says the report. "Soviet exhibits and papers indicate extensive progress has been made in the application of radioisotopes to industrial processes. Also that extensive progress has been made by them in the application of radioisotopes to medical therapy and agricultural research."

Poland and Albania are the only satellites in which there is very little or no nuclear development. Albania has been excluded entirely so far, and Poland offered "only token assistance."

The reports warns this far-flung nuclear activity presents serious challenges to the free world.

One of them is a possible menace to the health and safety of these countries.

In their conclusions, the Committee's experts pose the following grim problems for which, it is held, answers may have to be found in the near future:

"What should be done if the Russians attempt to go through with their announced plans to sell reactors to and to assist other nations outside the Iron Curtain?"

"What should be done if the Russians inadvertently endanger the health and safety of people outside their own country by unwise actions in the peaceful atomic field?"

"Will the Russians participate in some kind of an international pool or control plan? If they do, what should it be? If they don't, what should it be? And

Aerial Marker Program

—by H. G. Heller

AN ADDITIONAL 2,147 air markers were installed across the country during 1955, bringing the total number of these valuable pilot aids to 10,050. It was announced today by Charles J. Lowen, Administrator of Civil Aeronautics, U. S. Department of Commerce.

The increase in the number of markers during the year was largely the result of air marking programs by State aviation agencies, with assistance by groups including the 99's, an organization of women pilots, Boy Scouts, Chambers of Commerce, U. S. Forest Service, and especially the Standard Oil Company of California, which has a permanent air marking program for 375 markers in eight Western states.

Virginia reported the most markers installed during the year with 260, followed by 250 in Florida, 200 in Ohio, 184 in New York and 150 each in South Carolina and Louisiana.

New York added a first to its air marking program when it installed 37 markers on toll buildings along the State's super-highways.

In all, 27 States participated in air marking programs during the year. Several other States were in the off-year of established programs to install air markers every other year.

The standard air marker was developed by the Civil Aeronautics Administration and has been accepted as an international standard by the International Civil Aviation Organization. The standard marker is painted on rooftops or towers in 10 foot letters of chrome yellow on a dark background, giving the name of the town and an arrow pointing in the direction of and giving the distance to the nearest good airport.

Blanche Noyes, veteran woman pilot, is in charge of CAA's air marking activities.

The State breakdown of air markers installed during 1955 is as follows:

Pennsylvania, 142; New Jersey, 29; New York, 184, all of which have continuing programs. Ohio put up 200 on a non-continuing program. Florida showed the best record on its continuing program with 250.

The distance from New York to San Francisco via the Straits of Magellan is 13,135 miles, compared with 5,262 miles through the Panama Canal. *

If no agreement can be reached, what if anything should be done about Germany, in the meantime?"

My New York

—by Mel Heimer

New York—After the fashion of small boy who wants the dump truck currently being played with by another kid, I am pouting today. What I crave is a key.

It's a specific key—that to Gramercy park, and the more I think about it, the more I suppose that nearly everybody in Manhattan has wanted one at one time or another. The trouble is, the only way you can buy one is with an apartment lease.

Guarded sternly by four huge gates, Gramercy park is a small patch of land in what you might call "lower midtown"—an area from 20th to 21st streets, bounded rather roughly on the west by Fourth Avenue and on the east by Third. For all I know, it may be unique—the only park of its kind where you must live along its boundaries to own a key and thus be able to enter it.

These days there is a quiet, almost a torpor, about the place. On sunny days, these months, we swing ones, and by and see kids, nurses, old folk and proud young mothers leaping, sitting or standing inside. They seem to us never mind it. It is as though, as in Berkeley Square, they have walked through a door into another century.

The park and its environs, back in the late 1800s, were a stronghold of society. Peter Cooper, who founded Cooper institute, once lived there in his fabulous mansion with his own private ballroom, complete with 11 big mirrors.

At Gramercy Park North, hard by Lexington Avenue, lived Cyrus W. Field, whose home offices were made for the laying of the first transatlantic cable, and across the street once stood the home of Stanford White, the great architect who unfortunately got in Harry K. Thaw's way.

Edward MacDowell once wrote his music in the long-gone Hotel Westminster, and just off the square lived Teddy Roosevelt's mother, whose afternoons at home "seemed to convey a waft of violets," according to the writings of Mrs. Burton Harrison.

If you have been to London, Gramercy park will remind you of one of those endless, trim little British squares. Indeed, it's as old as some of them. Samuel B. Ruggles established it in 1831 and in the ensuing century and a quarter, outsiders have entered the park just once. In 1863, during the draft riots, the city was allowed to bivouac a company of soldiers there, complete with two howitzers.

Ruggles, who naturally didn't live at Gramercy square, himself, also established the rule that only residents living on the park's four borders could have keys to it. The key is a prized possession of young married couples; they can turn their howling progeny loose behind its darkened old iron fence and forget about them. They can be sure no strangers will molest the small fry.

At the time of the American Revolution, it is estimated that only about 20 per cent of the inhabitants of the colonies in revolt against England were literate.

The female goshawk is much larger than the male, and is about two feet in its entire length. The goshawk builds a large nest in trees.

Fungi and insects take their toll of seven billion dollars a year in the United States.

Special Types Of Income Need Special Treatment

(Fourth of a Series)
By Frank O'Brien
AP Newsfeatures

IF YOU have income in any form except salary and wages this includes bonuses, commissions and the like) you must report it in the special boxes, called schedules, on page 3 of Form 1040. On Page 4 here are two more boxes, where you can claim tax credits for two special kinds of income — dividends and retirement pay.

Some kinds of payments to you are not taxable income in the eyes of the tax law. Such receipts — gifts, for one example — can be set aside, free to tax (excluded) from the rest of your income. Exclusions, and the conditions under which you must make estimated tax payments, will be the subject of the next article.

Because the tax law gives a special break to taxpayers in retirement, and sets up special conditions for the self-employed and farmers, these types of income will be considered in separate articles. Here are the highlights of the tax law on other kinds of income, and on tax credits:

Interest Payments

1. You are required to report, in Schedule B, Page 3 of Form 1040, interest payments to you, as part of your taxable income. With certain exceptions, (interest you pay is deductible from your income.) Interest earned from state and municipal bonds, and on any $5,000 of U. S. Treasury bonds issued before March 1, 1941 is tax exempt, and you need not include it in your return.

The gradual increase in the value of certain savings bonds (Series "A" through "F") is interest, but you do not have to report it until you cash in the bond, or the bond matures, whichever happens earlier. You clip coupons from other types of savings bonds, or the government mails periodic interest checks. This is interest which must be reported as income for the year in which it is received.

Other interest on securities, loans and savings accounts is taxable, and must be reported.

2. Business or professional — the law taxes the profits of a business or profession — not total receipts. Businessmen and earners from a profession report their profits on special Schedule C, obtainable at revenue offices, post offices, banks and the like, and transfer the results to Line 8, Page 1, of Form 1040. Summary Schedule C has been eliminated from Form 1040. Remember that if you are in business, or a profession, and employ others, you may be required to withhold income tax from the wages you pay, and report the withholdings. Your estimated tax paying responsibilities will be discussed in a separate article.

Partnerships

3. Partnerships — partners in a business firm do not pay taxes in the name of the firm. They report their share of the partnership profits in their individual tax returns. In the new Form 1040, this must be reported in Schedule H, on page 3, where estates and trusts also report.

4. Sales and exchanges of property — you must report any profit from the sale on separate Schedule D, on which capital gains can be computed. You transfer the results to Schedule D summary in Form 1040.

There are special rules for the sale of homes. You must report any profit on sale of your residence (or other property not held for gain), but any loss is not deductible.

Profit On Selling Home

Profit on a home sale is the difference between what you paid for the home (plus your spending on it for permanent improvements) and your sale price. But if you use up your profit buying another home (within a year) or building a new home (occupied within 18 months of when you sold the old one) your profit is not taxable. The new home cost must be at least equal the adjusted sale price of your old home if none of your profit is to be taxable. The adjusted sale price is the full sale price, minus com-

Judy, Sid Back Together Again

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 6 (AP) — Sid Luft said yesterday he and Judy Garland are back together again. She sued him for divorce last week. "She went to her sister's," the agent told a newspaper, "but she came home Saturday and we had a good old-fashioned talk. I guess we had been working at cross purposes."

"I believe I hadn't been paying enough attention to her personal problems. At any rate, we worked things out and everything is smooth again."

He said the actress will dismiss the suit.

GM Pays 50 Cents

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP) — General Motors Corp. today declared a 50-cent dividend on its common shares, payable March 10 to stockholders of record Feb. 16. This is the equivalent to the $1.50 quarterly paid before the three-for-one stock split last fall.

Lancaster Cattle

LANCASTER, Feb. 7 (AP) — Cattle 200, good feeder steers 17.25, choice grades 19.00-19.50, calves 25, good and choice 24.50-29.00, prime grades 34.00. Hogs 25, no sales. Sheep none, no sales.

missions and the cost of redecorating performed within 90 days before the date of your sale contract.

5. Dividends — You are required to report your dividend income. But you get two breaks on dividend income. The first is that you may exclude — set aside tax free — up to $50 of dividend income from qualified corporations (described on page 6 of the instructions). If you are filing a joint return, husband and wife may each exclude up to $50 of such dividend income, if each had qualified dividends. You do this in Schedule A, at the top of Page 3 of Form 1040.

On your dividend income from qualified corporations that you do not exclude in Schedule A, you may be able to get a tax credit. You work this out in Schedule J, page 4. The tentative credit is 4 per cent of the dividend income from qualified corporations you did not exclude. Your actual credit is the smaller of the tentative dividend credit, your tax, or 4 per cent of your taxable income.

Other Credits

There are a number of other credits to be considered before you and your final tax liability. Your tax liability is your tax (Line 12, on page 1) minus your credits. The biggest, most common credit is for taxes you have already paid through withholding.

You may also have a retirement income credit coming to you. This will be discussed in a separate article.

You get credit also for any estimated tax payments you have made. All these credits are entered on lines 13 through 17, of page 1. You direct them from your tax, and get your final tax liability. This shows you whether you owe the government more, or the government owes you a refund.

Pennsylvania Power & Light Company has outlined its program of educational assistance in an informative pamphlet that covers the program from its aims and purposes to the broad details of the scholarships. Young people, parents, educators, business and industrial corporations... anybody interested in any way in higher education... can obtain a copy of this booklet by stopping at, or writing to, the nearest Company office.

In America, the custodianship for the teaching of the fundamentals of liberty and freedom of thought has always been the inherent function of the independent college. In recent years, the ability of these colleges to continue this vital function has been threatened as a result of the recent inflationary spiral.

PP&L, like other progressive American businesses, has combined its scholarship offer with provisions for extending financial aid to the school.

The scholarships are open to deserving young people who otherwise might not have an opportunity to further their schooling.

Now in its third year, the PP&L program provides for the establishment of six undergraduate scholarships each year for the sons and daughters of residents of the service area who are also customers of the Company or its subsidiaries. At least one of these scholarships is available to the son or daughter of an employee of these companies.

Each winner will have $500 paid toward his or her tuition during the college year. A similar sum is also paid to the college or university which the scholarship winner attends, to be used in whatever manner the institution believes will contribute most toward fulfillment of its educational objectives.

Old-Fashioned Ideas Come Back In Style

By David G. Barerth
AP Real Estate Editor

HOME improvement is quite the thing this year. Encouraged by the tremendous campaign organized by industries to persuade us to modernize or at least remodel our homes, we'll be adding a lot of gadgets and — don't doubt it — a lot of good old ideas from Grandpa's house.

The number of oldtime features about a house that have bounced back into favor is amazing when you start to count them. The old-fashioned parlor is back. The family dining room refused to stay in the grave. The pantry is pretending to be one of the latest discoveries in new house plans. The speaking tube — now called an intercom — and the clothes chute...

A friend snorted the other day while reading a development builder's advertisement listing a clothes chute among his headline features. "As if he dreamed it up himself!" our friend exclaimed. We recalled one of the many spankings we had for dropping lighted matches down a clothes chute in a rich man's house. His kids claimed there were rats down there and if we singled one they'd all run away.

Well, in modern split-level houses, where bedrooms often are directly over a laundry, a clothes chute can be a fine convenience.

Steel Hatchways
There's logic in the resurrection of tried and tested ideas. The other day we were admiring a steel basement door hatchway at a building supply yard. It's a nifty unit for covering outside stairs to a basement. The overlapping, watertight trap doors over the stairs are pitched to shed rain. We used to carry split logs and coal down stairs like that as a boy. But our covering doors were made of wood, rotted away and were eliminated when fuel oil came in.

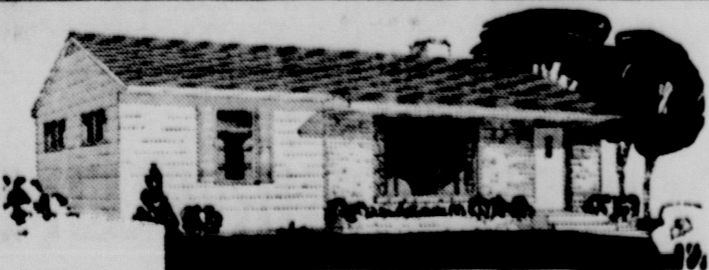

It took years for people to realize how much valuable space they were wasting in basements for the want of an outside entrance. Now they're making hatchways out of steel for permanence.

The big kitchen, where Grandma could supervise her brood while she baked pies and made doughnuts, has staged a real comeback. The stove and sink aren't separated by half a block, but there's plenty of space for the family and the dog and cat to eat congenially. In fact this family room idea has grown to the point where the historic sitting room is with us again. Some new houses even have a fireplace in the kitchen or the family room.

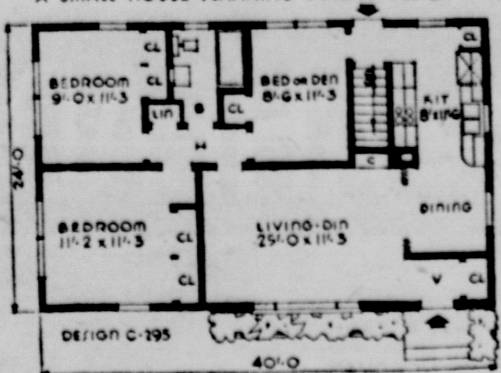

This has restored the parlor. We still call this formal room a living room, but it's getting smaller and less important. In many new homes it includes no fireplace and isn't much bigger than the parlor that was closed off for funerals and the minister's calls. And the family room is getting bigger and more comfortable.

Back Again
For years architects said the dining room was the most expensive room in a house — it was used so seldom. Dinettes, dining alcoves, dining space in the living room became the style. When families wanted a little more table space, a dining el was contrived off the living room. As soon as somebody thought up the room divider, the dining room was back again.

Then the carport made its bow and it needed an outer wall, so a storage wall was designed giving us the good old tool shed that always adjoined old-fashioned homes.

A SMALL HOUSE PLANNING BUREAU DESIGN NO. C-295

DESIGN C-295. The exterior of this attractive house is finished with wide siding, except for stone facing on the living room wall. A wide overhanging eave protects the picture window and the front entrance. There are three bedrooms, bath, living room, combination kitchen-dinette and a full basement. A pair of folding doors can separate the dinette from the living room.

Wardrobe closets, with overhead storage, are used throughout, in addition to the linen cabinet in the bedroom hall. Other points of interest are the planters under the picture window and beside the entrance steps, high side bedroom windows for added wall space, and recessed tub. Floor area is 960 sq. ft., with cubage of 18,240 cu. ft.

Home Repair Suggestions On Use Of Handsaws

WHEN USING A HANDSAW, remember that a crosscut saw is used for cutting across the grain, a rip saw for cutting with the grain. Grasp the handle of the saw firmly with the right hand (assuming that you are right-handed) so that the thumb touches one side of the handle, the index finger the other side.

Pull the saw upward slowly a couple of times to get the cut started properly, then proceed to complete the job by cutting on the downward strokes.

Hold the saw at about a 45 degree angle when crosscutting and about a 60 degree angle when rip-sawing.

Be sure to cut along the outer, or waste, side of your pencil or other guide line.

A Few Don'ts
DON'T... forget that starting the cut with a downward stroke may make the saw jump, marring the wood and possibly injuring your hand.

DON'T... fight the wood; take long, smooth strokes, putting pressure only on the downward strokes once the start has been made.

DON'T... when you get near the

As for speaking tubes, the kind you blew in to sound a whistle, then opened to holler through a pipe — well, talking doorbells and intercoms work better, all right, but the basic idea is there. Of course intercoms can be wired for hi-fi music throughout the house, but wasn't it someone in Grandpa's day who said silence is golden?

New Furnace Suspended From Ceiling

TODAY'S smaller furnace can heat a larger home than ever before.

Today's furnace is hardly noticeable. One company has produced a horizontal furnace which may be suspended from the ceiling or tucked neatly out of sight beneath the stairwell.

There is a "right" heating system for every home. But every heating system is not right for your home. The National Warm Air Conditioning Association, forwards these suggestions to help you select a furnace:

Further Suggestions
A weather-tight house pays dividends. Make sure that storm sash, weather stripping, caulking of frames and joints, insulation of ceilings and other exposed surfaces is adequate.

Do not buy on price alone. A heating system is an investment in comfort for years to come. The actual price is not the initial outlay; it includes maintenance and fuel costs for the rest of the furnace's life.

Make sure that the heating contractor you select is a qualified and reputable agent. Check with his customers and try to examine his handiwork personally.

Water Heater Near Busy Taps

AS A GENERAL rule, water heaters should be placed nearest the outlet or outlets that call for the greatest quantity of hot water. Sometimes, however, this involves excessively long pipe runs to other fixtures. In this case, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau points out, it is best to install a second water heater to serve the other fixtures and outlets.

Antiquated Kitchens Can Be Modernized Economically

WHAT TO DO about a 50-year-old kitchen? Since we don't destroy old houses, and many people prefer them to new abodes, many antiquated kitchens are to be found.

It used to be that to preserve the charm of an old house many housewives would tolerate inconveniences in the kitchen. A modern refrigerator might darken the door, and an electric stove might slide in unnoticed. But a washing machine or dishwasher? Perish the thought.

Times have changed. An old kitchen can retain its charm by using many materials that will sort of slipcover the new appliances. One such material is pine paneling. Lovers of early American sometimes paint it the popular green of that period to give it an aged appearance. It may be used around counters to disguise anything that looks too modern to antiquarians.

Some homeowners do not tolerate an outmoded kitchen if they can help it. Such a couple is the Harry Hendersons of Los Angeles. Says Henderson:

How Job Was Done
"The kitchen in our 50-year-old house was very old-fashioned with a 10 foot ceiling, a brick chimney where the old coal stove used to be vented, an ancient soapstone sink, and vintage cabinets."

An ardent do-it-yourselfer, here's what Henderson did to improve such a kitchen. Says he:

Used Knotty Pine
"To get away from the tight, closed-in feeling, I tore out a partition between the kitchen and back porch and installed a 4 x 16 inch girder to support the upstairs. I got rid of all the old cabinets, peeled off the plaster walls to the bare studs and lowered the ceiling to eight feet."

"I selected the best knotty pine I could find, 1 by 10 tongue and groove with V-joint edge, and proceeded to line the ceiling. A hydraulic car jack came in handy to give even tightness to the joints of the paneling."

"I ran the pine paneling for the

All U.S. Aid To Israel Enrages Arabs, Widens Gap

By J. M. Roberts
Associated Press News Analyst

Secretary Dulles has gone about as far as he can without a mutual defense treaty in telling the Arab states that the United States will defend Israel.

American policy, he says, embraces the preservation of Israel. That's pretty much what has been said about Formosa with greater formality.

Dulles adds that the policy exists within a desire for continued friendship with the Arabs.

Nothing U. S. Can Do

There is, however, almost nothing that the United States can do to safeguard Israel which will not stir resentment among the Arabs.

Indeed, it seems quite possible that any effort to impose peace by force—through allied occupation of safety zones, a blockade, or even just a fleet demonstration—will enrage the Arabs. So would sale of arms to Israel in an effort to maintain a balance of power, despite the deal between Egypt and Russia.

Quantities Not Mentioned

Incidentally, it is well to note in this discussion of arms sales that it is usually carried on in terms of money values instead of quantities and qualities, so that it is almost impossible to tell anything about the real weight involved. In a case such as Egypt's, with Russia disposing of surplus arms at arbitrary prices, money doesn't mean a thing, and the possibility of low quality may be a factor. Without detailed intelligence reports it may prove almost impossible to determine what "maintaining a balance" would mean.

Another consideration is that, if Russia really chooses to make a race of it, two million Israelis would find it impossible to maintain long-time parity with forty million Arabs. Under those terms, parity would mean direct gifts of arms by the Western Powers—and that would bring them face-to-face with Russia and the possibility of war.

Tri-Power Talks Important

Against this background, the importance of the tri-power talks beginning in Washington today can hardly be exaggerated. After dilly-dallying for several years, the Western Powers are now brought face-to-face with the necessity of trying to find some means of compromising the Arab-Israeli dispute.

The difficulties are immense, especially while the Arabs completely refuse to recognize Israel as a permanent state. That brings them into direct conflict with the policy of the United States as just restated.

Peace by force or coercion seems to be about the only immediate prospect. But that never works for long. Peace by purchase, through offers of reimbursement and resettlement of the Arab refugees, and through the launching of economic aid programs, seems to be of little interest to the Arabs.

If the Western Powers can just "muddle through" this one they will be doing pretty well.

or drinking places and caterers. Excepted would be receipts from such sources as colleges, schools, hospitals or churches.

After July 1 all such eating and drinking places would have to display a state registration certificate and each would make quarterly returns, forwarding complete payment, beginning April 15.

Since 1913 the average hourly earnings of factory employees have increased by 746 per cent, says the National Assn. of Manufacturers.

All health, welfare, charitable, religious, educational, patriotic and volunteer firemen organizations would be allowed a two per cent redemption fee when returning the cancelled stamps in amounts over a face value of $100.

It is believed this redemption value is an aid in collecting the tax for the state since purchasers are more certain about insisting upon the stamp receipt to turn over to their favorite charitable group.

All merchants of taxable items would have to register with the state at a fee of $2. Each would make monthly returns with full payment of tax collected.

The penalty for filing a fraudulent return would be a fine of up to $2,000 or three years in jail or both.

The tax would be two per cent on all sales above 10 cents and would be paid to the closest penny.

The other Republican backed tax would apply specifically to persons operating hotels, inns, apartment hotels, motels, tourist homes public restaurants, cafes, lunch counters and other public eating

House Votes $755,000 For Flood Control

By J. Frank Tragle
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The House today voted $755,000 to be spent on Pennsylvania flood control projects between now and June 30.

Reversing its Appropriations Committee, the House included $60,000 in planning money for Allentown and $50,000 for planning at Bethlehem. These two items had been recommended by President Eisenhower but the committee had not included them in its bill.

Bear Creek Reservoir
Also included in the supplemental money bill approved today was $300,000 for construction at Bear Creek Reservoir in Luzerne County, and these amounts for pre-construction engineering and design: Dyberry Reservoir near Honesdale, $125,000; Stillwater Reservoir near Forest City, $120,000, and Prompton Reservoir at Prompton, $100,000.

In Flood Area
All of the projects are in the northeastern section of the state that was struck by heavy floods last Summer. President Eisenhower has proposed additional money for these and other Pennsylvania projects in the year starting July 1, but these latter amounts will be considered at some later date in connection with the regular Army civil functions appropriation bill.

Spokesmen for the Appropriations Committee told the House they had eliminated the Allentown and Bethlehem projects from the bill because they felt they were not of an emergency nature and therefore could be considered later.

Want Allentown, Bethlehem
But Reps. McConnell and Gavin, Pennsylvania Republicans, and Flood, Pennsylvania Democrat, urged that the Allentown and Bethlehem projects be included so that the whole Lehigh River Basin protection system—involving Bear Creek Reservoir and channel and levee work at Allentown and Bethlehem—could go forward as a unit.

A railroad spokesman said the earth was loosened by rain that has pelted this area the past two days.

Earth Slide Derails Five Express Cars

WEST NEWTON, Pa., Feb. 7 (AP)—Tons of earth—loosened by heavy rains—crashed broadside into a rumbling Baltimore & Ohio Railroad passenger train today and knocked five cars off the track.

The diesel locomotive and the first car passed before the slide rolled into the rest of the train, overturning one car, tilting two others and derailing three more.

Only one person was hospitalized, James S. Stern, 34, of Pittsburgh, suffered possible back and neck injuries but was in good condition.

The train was en route from Cleveland to Baltimore with some 100 passengers aboard. It rolled into the slide's path at 1:25 a.m., about 30 miles southeast of Pittsburgh. "There was no warning of the landslide," a B&O spokesman said.

Local Men Enlist In U. S. Navy

TWO AREA young men have enlisted in the U. S. Navy, according to J. P. Shirley, ENC, Navy recruiter here.

Floyd E. Koehler Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Koehler of Star Route, Saylorsburg, attended Chestnut Hill High School, Broadheadville, and Flyte's Grammar School, Saylorsburg. Before enlisting, he was employed at Novelty Sportswear Co., Wind Gap.

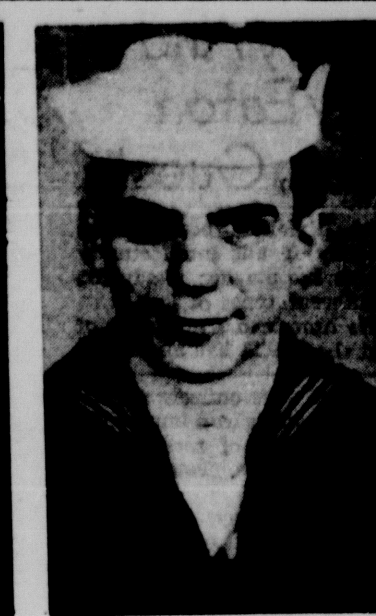

Harry Lang, son of Julius Lang of 221 S. Crystal St., East Stroudsburg, attended the East Stroudsburg schools and was employed by Hughes Printing Co. prior to his enlistment.

Harry, who is 18, entered the service one week ahead of his brother, Harold, 17, who also joined the Navy. Harold attended East Stroudsburg schools and worked at the Mount Pocono Diner before enlisting.

Farmlands in Iceland which have been covered by ice for 600 years are now again in use as the glaciers retreat.

Modern Music In Theory And Practice Discussed By Eaton For University Women, Guests

One facet of the differences in rag-time, Dixieland, hop, modern and progressive jazz became apparent audibly if not intellectually when John Eaton illustrated the differences by playing "Lady Be Good" as the pianist might play it in the different types of jazz.

His audience, members and guests of the American Association of University Women, meeting Monday night at the YMCA had also had a chance to increase their intellectual understanding of the new trends in his talk on the jazz movement and its modern developments.

His interest in the speech and the speaker was evidenced in the flood of questions which followed his talk and in the informal seminar which lingered on even after refreshments had been served, to discuss various points.

Admitting the inadequacy of words in defining the non-verbal art of music, Eaton defined jazz as "a way of organizing sounds, silence and motion to express a purpose," which would also be a definition of music itself.

Historically around music called jazz certain similarities have grown up he said including a certain musical style, similar beats, using the same tunes, and a preference for certain instrument groupings and the use of certain instruments. However, to make any one of these part of the definition of jazz would be to exclude some of its present forms or include other music which was not classified as jazz.

Not Jungle Beat

Modern jazz is not linked to African jungle music, he insisted, contrary to opinion prevalent among certain music historians at British colleges. Modern jazz has a consistent use of beat, he said, where the African drum beats is not consistent.

Neither is it true to charge that jazz is the only form of music to make use of improvisation. Improvisation is in the tradition of classical music, he said, pointing to the sketchiness of Bach's chords which expected the performer to improvise. In the 19th century, he admitted, the idea that the score was master of the performer became more fixed.

For this very reason, he had found enthusiasm for jazz as the one type of present day music which called for improvisation with neither the audience nor composer expecting the performer to give an accurate note-for-note reproduction.

In the present cycle, there is a growth of greater intellectual composition and greater domination of the score in jazz, he said.

In Line of Tradition

Jazz makes use of folk tunes, he said, but that too in the classical tradition pointing to the folk tunes used by the classical composers and in present sacred music as well.

Jazz, like all music, he contended, was neither moral nor immoral.

He played a selection from Mendelssohn, as well as the "Lady Be Good" number, and also illustrated certain points through the recording of his recent Columbia recording: "College Jazz-Modern." Johnny Eaton and His Princetonians. It was this recording which brought national recognition to the 20-year old Eaton, now a junior at Princeton University, and son of Rev. and Mrs. Harold C. Eaton, East Stroudsburg.

Wide Range of Questions

It was in part interest in Eaton himself, which prompted some of the questions.

"Did they rehearse before recording, and if so how could the improvisation be fresh each time?" They carefully rehearsed the beginning and the ending, he said, but the solo parts were not rehearsed.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

I think one reason I was so cranky last night was because I was disappointed in not getting finished in time to hear all of Johnny Eaton's talk. However, I did get in for the discussion and that was fascinating.

Due in part to the questioners, who were in themselves interesting people, and of course due to Johnny Eaton who possesses an enthusiasm for his subject and the ability to project that enthusiasm to others, without which any speech is apt to be humdrum.

Enthusiasm for their subject is one thing the members of that AAUW speaker's bureau should have in common since they're willing to encourage high school girls to try college and careers.

One member, with another career of her own, nevertheless insists that what she wants to talk to girls about is college as preparation for a career as wife and mother. And there I think she's got something, because that is the ultimate career that most girls, whether they admit it or not, want to prepare for.

And the one most of them will be taking up, judging by the way the weddings, showers, engagements and housewarmings are dominating the news these days.

That's the kind of news that's appropriate to February which not only has Valentine's Day but also the leap year day that makes this leap year.

heard and were entirely a matter of the soloists own improvisation at the time of recording.

"What about his piano technique?"

Well, said Johnny, he pushed the keys instead of plunking them, with a relaxed rather than a tense touch.

"Was the failure of some people to understand modern music due to the fact that they hadn't listened to it enough?"

It might be due to a failure on the part of the musician, he said. Music should be able to communicate directly to the listeners and its construction should be able to stand by itself. While the musician should be true to his own sense of music, he sometimes composed music purely as an intellectual exercise like a mathematical problem or crossword puzzle, interesting but without message or feeling.

Dr. Dorothy Luckner, program chairman, introduced Eaton following the regular business meeting of the AAUW with Mrs. Charles Albert presiding.

A tribute to the memory of Mrs. Jonas T. May, an active member of the local branch, opened the meeting.

A nominating committee was named including Mrs. J. L. Cohen, Mrs. Charles McMahon and Dr. Ruth Kistler.

Mrs. Harold Creveling announced a meeting of the International Relations group to be held March 16 at the home of Mrs. E. H. Calkins when the group would discuss Far Eastern problems.

Ten Professions Represented

Mrs. Albert, who has sparked a speaker's bureau project, announced that letters had been sent to the principals of the eight county high schools offering to provide speakers for guidance programs in the school from among the members, on colleges and careers.

Primarily the speakers want to interest girls in considering college education as a preparation for a career in the professions. Mrs. Albert has 17 speakers on her list representing ten different professions.

The March meeting will be an International relations meeting, it was announced, with Dr. Harold Creveling and Dr. John C. Appel as the speakers.

Following the program, Mrs. Joseph Viglione headed a committee serving cake and coffee to members and guests.

CONTEMPORARY TRIUMPHS

At the recent International Home Furnishings Show it was evident that contemporary is the prevailing trend in furniture styling. It has taken on the grace and subtle lines of traditional. While this type furniture appears to be light in scale it is none the less commodious. Of course, all groups continue to feature the multi-purpose theme.

There is also a strong trend towards Formica not only for kitchen counter tops but for tables throughout your home. It comes in many lovely colors... colors that will blend perfectly with new decorating trends. In addition to adding an attractive note, it will put an end to worrying over a spilled drink, etc. See the selection now at the Monroe County General Flooring Co., 914 N. 9th Street, Stroudsburg, Pa., Tel. 508-1.

World Day Of Prayer Group Meets

Plans for the Community World Day of Prayer observance for all Stroudsburg area churches were advanced at a meeting of the planning committee held last Friday at the Grace Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Corey Bush, of Grace Church, is chairman of the planning committee. Mrs. Lee Crossdale, of the Zion Reformed Church, will serve as leader of the service itself which is to be held on Friday afternoon, February 17, at the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

A final meeting of the planning committee has been called for this Friday night, February 10 at 7:30 at the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Bush has requested all churches of the area to send representatives so that final plans can be made for the program.

"Are you here in an official capacity, or just eating off Wyckoff's?" Harry Albert questioned when he saw me at Monday evening's meeting of the Stroudsburg Merchants' Association. I had to admit that I was quite unofficial, and there at the invitation of a very thoughtful boss who must have realized how interested I would be in the Flood Control program presented by Lt. Colonel John Lee, Jr., of the Engineers Corps, U. S. Army.

Colonel Lee is a very interesting man whose father, a retired three star general served as President Eisenhower's supply chief. I believe, during the last World War. The Colonel himself was an Army baby who toiled on all things Army, including the Mississippi floods of 1929 that presented headaches for the Army Engineer Corps in the deep South where his father was stationed at the time. Even his romance was tied up with the U. S. Army and world-wide conflict. It was at West Point that Colonel Lee met the Wilkes-Barre girl whom he was eventually to marry. Their romance, he admits, was a quick enough thing, and an engagement was soon announced... but the marriage itself was delayed by Army orders that took the prospective bridegroom to Alaska, England, and other points.

The Colonel laughs as he looks back on it. His fiancée was an airline stewardess, whom he encouraged to resign, thinking that if she joined the Red Cross she could come to England where they could (maybe) marry, or at least see each other now and then. The plan was perfect... but somewhere along the way it hit a snag. The bride-to-be joined the Red Cross... but while Colonel Lee yearned in England, she found herself in New Guinea, suffering the torments of jungle life for two seemingly endless years. Eventually love won out. There are now four children, one just four months old, to prove it.

Martin Favors Credit Study

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP) — William McChesney Martin Jr., chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, told Congress today he thinks a study of consumer credit controls would be "timely."

But he said he does not advocate their use at present.

Martin declined to say whether the board, which manages the nation's money supply, is currently easing or tightening credit, explaining that any statement by him would be used speculatively in the money markets.

No Parochial Buses

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 6 (AP) — School boards do not have authority to transport parochial pupils in public school buses, Allegheny County Common Pleas Court ruled yesterday.

The court's decision was based on a study of consumer credit controls would be "timely."

But he said he does not advocate their use at present.

Martin declined to say whether the board, which manages the nation's money supply, is currently easing or tightening credit, explaining that any statement by him would be used speculatively in the money markets.

STROUDSBURG High School's new gymnasium, when completed, will probably be the largest in the entire Lehigh Valley League. It will seat between 1,400 and 1,700 people and will consist of three courts. But, the catch appears to be that the Mountaineers won't be able to play home games in the spacious new gym until the second half of the 1956-57 campaign at the earliest. The completion date is January 25, which means it will actually be February or maybe even later when the new structure is opened.

The Mountaineers will be faced with the problem of playing most of their games on foreign courts next season. Arrangements may be made for a playing floor in this area, providing various schedules can be adjusted. The present W. Main St. gym will be turned into a cafeteria and work is supposed to begin on the project almost immediately after the current basketball campaign. The new gym and all of its advantages will be well worth the inconveniences during the first few months of the next school year.

It has been estimated by Coach John Kupiec that Doug Shook grabbed 30 rebounds during Stroudsburg's tussle with Slatington last Friday. Kupiec broke Shook's record down to 20 rebounds on the defensive board and 10 off the offensive backboard. Doug Nichols, who displayed flashes of fine ability, decided not to finish out the current basketball campaign with the Mountaineers. Stroudsburg Junior High plays its first basketball game of the season tomorrow. It's against Pen Argyl.

Bob Mikvy, Palmerton's brilliant scorer, is currently hampered by a sprained ankle. Mikvy led the Bombers to the first half title in the Lehigh Valley League this season and was one of the main reasons Palmerton, through the circuit campaign, undefeated last season. He played only half the game against Whitehall last Friday. East Stroudsburg High's varsity basketball team will witness two games of the National Invitation Tournament as guests of the Eastburg Athletic Association.

Jean Schultz, a member of the Bangor High girls' basketball team, is the daughter of Bob Schultz, once an outstanding pitcher for the now defunct Stroudsburg Poconos. He was one of the also hurriers during the North Atlantic League. The Pocono Mountains Basketball League has two games to make up, both involving Pocono Lake.

A Heart Fund bowling show will be presented at Harmon's Recreation on Sunday, February 19. Doris Herrmann, an outstanding guard on the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College girls' basketball team, is currently on the sidelines with a dislocated knee. Harry Mullins, former Stroudsburg High student who was married last Saturday, is a member of the Marine Corps basketball team in Washington, D. C. Harry and his bride are currently honeymooning in New York.

One of the largest crowds to ever witness a basketball game in this area is expected to be on hand tomorrow night when the University of Scranton tangles with East Stroudsburg State Teachers College in the Normal Hill gymnasium. Coach Ray Welsh, former ESSTC basketball mentor, is bringing Scranton to town and both are anxious to make the Warriors their sixth victim of the campaign. Scranton has topped the 100 mark twice this season.

The Royals ran up a 105-86 nod over Albright last Saturday night. This is the same Albright club that lost by only one point to Lafayette, two points to Muhlenberg and four points to Army. Scranton also bettered the century mark against Wilkes last month. The Royals play a tremendous schedule and when Welsh, one of Stroudsburg's most popular residents, took over the Scranton job he was told that he would be very fortunate to win four games this season. The Albright victory was Ray's fifth.

It's been a long, long time since any college basketball game in this area has attracted the attention that the "borrow" contests has drawn. Fans in this locality began talking about the Scranton-ESSTC clash immediately after Welsh signed to pilot the Scranton crew. Anyone wishing to witness this contest is advised to arrive on the scene well in advance of the starting time. Seats will be worth their weight in gold. Is Al Besscker's Diner, an entry in the Pocono Mountains Basketball League, about to add another player to its roster?

East Stroudsburg Outlasts Phillipsburg Foe, 65-57

Cavaliers Account For 11th Victory

EAST Stroudsburg High swept to its 11th victory in 15 basketball outings last night by dealing a 65-57 setback to maroon uniformed Phillipsburg. The exhibition encounter was held on the N. Courtland St. hardwood. It was the second time this season that the Cavaliers have won over the Staterliners.

The Cavaliers, stepping out of the Lehigh-Northampton League wars for the first time in a month, dominated the slow moving contest from start to finish and at no time were in danger of suffering a setback.

the Lehigh-Northampton League, and the rebounding of Co-Captain Danny Marvin and Jim Kimler, the Cavaliers stepped off to a 12-8 lead at the end of the first quarter.

The ball stealing antics of Co-Captain Dick Gray, Harry Miller and Dale Metzgar completely throttled the visiting Phillipsburg five in the second round and the Cavaliers reached the halfway mark on the long end of a 31-20 count. The host squad enjoyed a 19-12 advantage in the second quarter.

East Stroudsburg, playing a slow and more deliberate type of ball than at anytime in recent weeks, continued to dominate play in the second half as the home team battled to its fifth straight victory without a setback.

The Cavaliers enjoyed a 16-14 bulge in the third round and made certain of victory despite being outscored during the last 10 minutes of action, 23-18.

Coach Dick Foster substituted freely during the course of the contest and almost every East Stroudsburg player in uniform saw service in the contest. Beers continued to pace the Eastburg offense as he rolled up 29 points on 11 goals from the field and seven of 12 shots from the foul line. Jim Kimler was the number two point producer in a winning cause with 15 counters. Kimler picked up seven field goals and one foul shot.

George Snyder led the Garnet with 19 counters, while Ed Peterson was next in line with 17 counters. Snyder converted five field goals and made good on nine of 11 foul shots. Peterson hit from the floor four times and found the range on nine of 10 charity tosses. East Stroudsburg enjoyed a 24-17 edge in field goals, but Phillipsburg kept in the battle by converting 23 of 28 shots from the foul line. Eastburg made good on 17 of 28 free throws.

Phillipsburg gained a measure of revenge by winning the junior varsity tussle between the two teams, 50-30.

Eastburg To Battle Pocono
EAST STROUDSBURG Junior High School will oppose Pocono Junior High in a basketball game on the former's home court today. The tap is scheduled to take place at 2:30 p. m.

Four Wins
East Stroudsburg owns one decision over Pocono this season and has won four of five games to date. The Cavaliers meet Stroudsburg Junior High next Tuesday, at Stroudsburg.

Gavilan Drops Unpopular Nod To Waterman
LONDON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Peter Waterman, 21, unbeaten British youngster, won a widely booted decision over former welterweight champion "Kid" Gavilan, 30, of Cuba tonight as 11,000 Britons roared their disapproval of the verdict. Gavilan weighed 147½, Waterman 147½. The Briton who reads Homer, paints, landscapes and likes a night at the ballet, had his arm lifted in triumph by Referee Ben Green amidst a storm of protests. The booing and catcalls lasted for 10 minutes.

Pocono Takes Over Leadership

CANADENSIS—Pocono High used its foul shooting ability to take over undisputed possession of first place in the Monroe County Basketball League last night as the blue and white clad cagers battled to a 60-48 verdict over Barrett, here on the losing squad's home court.

The largest crowd of the season jammed its way into the Barrett gym to watch Pocono score its third straight favorable nod over its heated rival this season. The win, fifth straight for Pocono, gave the pace setter a record of 10 favorable nods and two of the unfavorable variety.

Barrett has now won seven and lost five contests.

Both teams accounted for 19 field goals, but Pocono took advantage of 48 shots from the foul line to sink 31, which in turn proved the difference in the two squads. Barrett converted 10 of 23 free throws.

Sharp Eyes

Burdette Peechaska made good on eight of 11 shots from the foul line. Jim Smiley hit for six of 10. Pat Peduto put on a perfect six-for-six performance and Jim "Sticks" Wagner made good on seven foul shots, as Pocono took over undisputed possession of the top rung for the first time in approximately one month.

Pocono did its damage in the second and third quarters, when the charges of Coach Harry Wertheimer ran up a 24-8 and 13-9 advantage respectively. Pocono also held a slim 16-15 edge in the first period and each team picked up 16 points during the last eight minutes of play.

Wagner led the winning attack with 21 points, while Peechaska added 24 and Ronnie Martinelli chipped in with 15 important counters. Charley Harrison, one of three Barrett players to foul out of the game, led the losing forces with 13 counters. "Butch" DiFuria and Jim Everett were the other Barrett players forced to leave the game because of personal fouls.

Reed Gravel, Barrett's center, was injured in the third quarter, but returned to action in the final period. Pocono retained its undefeated record in the junior varsity ranks by gaining a 63-42 nod over Barrett in the preliminary tussle.

Northampton Keeps Flag Hopes Alive

NORTHAMPTON—Stroudsburg High went down to its third basketball defeat in the second half of the Lehigh Valley League last night by dropping a 76-57 decision to Northampton, here on the latter's home court. It was the second win in three second half outings for the Konkrete Kids.

Stroudsburg has now lost 13 games to go with two victories and the Mountaineers are in the grasp of a 12-game losing streak, which includes 10 straight against Lehigh Valley League opposition.

The Mountaineers battled the Kids, runner-up for first half laurels, to the limit for three quarters, but the home standing Northampton squad was just too much for the visiting contingent, despite another brilliant showing by Doug Shook.

Northampton jumped off to a solid 20-11 advantage after eight minutes of play and then rolled into a 38-27 edge at the halfway mark with the aid of an 18-16 bulge during the second quarter.

Stroudsburg, paced by Shook and Francis "Sonny" Dieber, unloaded a terrific spurt early in the third round and pulled to within one point of the Kids, 43-42, but Northampton presented a rally of its own in the late portion of the third quarter and was never threatened thereafter.

Northampton held the upper hand in the third quarter, 19-17, and cemented the verdict with a 19-13 front running margin in the fourth stanza.

The Konkrete Kids turned in a 28-21 advantage in field goals and connected on 20 of 32 foul shots. Stroudsburg converted 15 of 25 charity tosses.

Shook, third in the individual Lehigh Valley League scoring race prior to last night's tussle, ran up 24 points on 11 goals from the floor and two from the foul line. Dieber was next in line with 11 counters.

Dick Shimer, with 20 tallies, paced the Northampton attack, but Jerry Simcoe set a school record by scoring 18 counters. This brought Simcoe's total for the current season to 406, five more than the previous one-season mark at Northampton.

Northampton made a clean sweep of last night's program by rolling up a 55-31 victory over Stroudsburg in the Junior Varsity tussle.

Jones Favored Over Baldoni

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Ralph (Tiger) Jones of Yonkers, N. Y., a ranking middleweight contender, is a 12 to 5 favorite to trip up Tony Baldoni of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., tomorrow night when the slugger from the anthracite coal regions takes his most important test.

The 10-round match, starting at 10 p. m. (EST) will be carried on radio and television (ABC). The National Boxing Assn. "must 10" point system will be used. The winner of each round gets 10 points and the loser nine or less.

Impressive
Baldoni, 23, scored impressively in his last start, whipping Ray Drake at Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 14. The newcomer is a willing brawler who wades in throwing punches from all angles.

Pope Pius Cagers List Two Battles
PEN ARGYL—Pope Pius High, Roseto, will clash with Pope Pius High, Pottstown, here on the St. Elizabeth School court today. Junior varsity action is set for 7 p. m. and varsity activity at 8 p. m.

The Pottstown squad holds one decision over the Roseto five this season. The Roseto cagers play at Jim Thorpe tomorrow, against Jim Thorpe Catholic.

ESSTC Quintet Rolls Over Paterson Teachers, 111-69

PATERSON—Paterson Teachers became the victim of an East Stroudsburg State Teachers College basketball team that exploded its full potential here last night and rolled to a whopping 111-69 decision on the Paterson hardwood. It was the largest score credited to the Warriors this season.

The victory was the third in 10 outings for ESSTC, who stocks up again the University of Scranton in the Normal Hill gymnasium tomorrow night.

Charley German, last year's brilliant ESSTC star, demonstrated last night that he hasn't lost a bit of his polish as he ran up 35 points in less than three quarters of play. German, former Whitehall High cager, tallied 25 marks in the first half.

BIG GUNS
Big Dave "Kelly" McLaughlin was number two in line with 29 marks and smooth operating Wilmont Smith produced 20.

German tallied 13 field goals, as did McLaughlin, and found the range on nine of 10 shots from the foul line. German grabbed 18 rebounds and also gave off four assists. McLaughlin obtained 13 rebounds. The entire band of Warriors were credited with 18 assists, five being handed off by little Steve Oliver.

ESSTC grew stronger as the game progressed and turned the contest into a rout during the third and fourth quarters.

The Warriors led 23-19 at the end of the first period and 51-40 at halftime. The visiting pupils of Coach Jerry Palala swamped Paterson in the third quarter, 30-8, and bettered the century mark with a 30-21 edge during the final 10 minutes.

Field Goals
ESSTC rolled up a 47-27 advantage in field goals and converted 17 of 25 charity tosses. Paterson made good on 15 of 38 free throws.

Lou Ciranque paced the Paterson attack with 22 points, picking up nine field goals and four successful foul shots. ESSTC also won the junior varsity engagement with Paterson, 69-47.

Native Dancer Becomes Papa

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 7 (AP)—Native Dancer, thoroughbred racing's horse of the year in 1954, is a papa.

The first foal is a chestnut filly out of Bray Melody, belonging to the Crown Crest Farm of Howard Reineman of Lexington.

Retired
Native Dancer, who turned up lame, was retired after the '54 racing season.

Polk-TTHS Game Off

POCONO PINES—A scheduled Monroe County League basketball game between Polk and Tobyhanna Township High was postponed here at the latter's request last night.

Monday's rain and ice storm in this region curtailed telephone and electric service and TTHS didn't have school yesterday.

Reason
It was for this reason that TTHS yesterday asked for postponement. The game will be played here on the same court on Tuesday, February 21.

Berra Becomes Vice President

GARFIELD, N. J., Feb. 7 (AP)—Yogi Berra today became a vice-president. Not a vee of the New York Yankees but of a chocolate milk company.

Berra's new connection is sure to light a fire in enemy dugouts. The name of the firm is the Yoo-Hoo Chocolate Products, Co.

Muhlenberg Names Grid Coach

ALLENTOWN, Feb. 7 (AP)—Muhlenberg College today appointed Raymond J. Whispeil, a member of the football staff at Lehigh, as head football coach for the next three years.

He succeeds Tom Triplett, who resigned after last season. Triplett now is with an Allentown department store.

Added Duties
Whispeil, 32, also will serve as golf coach and a physical education instructor. His salary was not disclosed.

He graduated from Allentown High School, attended Temple University in 1942 and 1943, and played on the St. Bonaventure eleven after service in the second World War. He is married and has two children.

THE CARD PARTY held by the Elsie Longacre Rebekah Lodge recently proved very enjoyable, with several tables taking part and many fine prizes awarded. Mrs. Dorothea Schreck won the door prize of a towel set. The Lodge is planning a Penny Supper to be held in May, definite date to be announced later.

Mrs. Francis Mooney and daughter Frances spent a couple of days in Philadelphia and Allentown recently, visiting relatives and friends. Frances enjoyed renewing acquaintances among her former school associates at Drexel Institute while in that locality.

Charles Besecker who is confined to his home as the result of a painful accident on Jan. 31, when he slipped on the ice and broke his leg in two places, has been suffering a lot of discomfort. His host of friends all extend best wishes for his early recovery.

The women workers of St. Paul's Lutheran Church meet to quilt every week and at their last session were assisted by Mrs. Ed Horn, Sr., Mrs. Fred Hill, Mrs. Nyce, Mrs. Harry Singer, Mrs. Nellie Mosteller, Mrs. Harold Walters, Mrs. Ruth Learn, Mrs. Krauss, Mrs. Gertrude Learn and Miss Viola Learn. Mrs. Harry Newhart visited briefly during the afternoon.

Mrs. Bessie Hauser and Mrs. Helen Shaffer spent an evening at the William Clugstons recently when card were enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. George Niering also called briefly the same evening.

RICKY BAILES, 3, appears quite displeased because Nancy Comer, 2, has come up with a "welcome home" idea he had believed to be original. Each carries a huge balloon greeting respective fathers who arrived in Long Beach, Calif., on the cruiser Manch'nter. The ship brought back 1,200 officers and men from duty in the Far East.

THIS IS NO tortoise-and-hare race out of "Alice in Wonderland." For here a turtle, 15 years old and known as "Grandpa," literally crawls to a winning finish at the Madison Square Boys' Club pet show in New York. On hand to hail the victor in the "Most Unusual Pet" class is Dutchess, a cat stationed at the finish line.

Board Tracks

By Hugh Fullerton Jr.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—John

Landy's quick refusal to have anything to do with board track racing in the United States today left the promoters of indoor meets in a bewildered search for a gate attraction in an Olympic year when track sports should be booming.

With Wes Santee, America's No. 1 ruler, unavailable until a special committee decides whether his expense accounts exceeded the amateur limits, there's no one to draw the cash customers into the arenas. Landy, the world record holder, was invited to come over and perk up spectator interest.

But the Australian speedster gave a quick turnaround to the invitation to run in the American indoor championships, Feb. 18 and several other meets.

Concentrating

"I am concentrating on the Australian mile championship March 10," he said in Melbourne. "I have to take up a teaching post and don't expect to compete outside Victoria at all this year."

It's a peculiar situation in indoor track that a great many spectators consider the mile the only important event. And Landy's refusal left Ron Delany, an Irishman who'll only run fast enough to win, as the best miler in competition. There's no one to push Ron, and the cagey Celt refuses to follow the pace of a human rabbit just to get a good timing. His fastest mile this season was 4:06.3 at Boston, where he had to come from behind to win after Santee had gone out with the early pace. He is a sophomore at Villanova.

Last Saturday's Millrose meet, with Delany topping the Wana-maker Mile field, did something less than capacity business at the gate. About the same field—Delany, Len Truex, Joe Deady and George King of NYU—will run in the Baxter Mile at the New York A.C. meet this week. As a result, meet director Eddie Swinburne is trying to build up a duel between Arny Sowell and Tom Courtney in the Halpin 880 as the main event.

It should be quite a race. Sowell, the smooth-striding Pitt senior, holds the Pan-American, AAU indoor and outdoor, ICA indoor and outdoor titles at 880 yards. Courtney, formerly of Fordham but now an Army private, won the national collegiate half-mile championship last summer, when Sowell was shut out in the heats, and holds the American outdoor 800 meter record.

Allen Begins

Dayton Career

DAYTON, Ohio, Feb. 7 (AP)—

Sophomore Mike Allen, controversial center on Ohio State's basketball team, enrolled today at the University of Dayton with the comment he had no idea his transfer would cause "all this commotion."

Allen told a reporter he was dissatisfied at Ohio State, wanted to go to another school and liked the choice of Dayton if the school would have him.

Sorry

Allen declared he was sorry to see the interpretation some people put on his transfer because it was his own idea. OSU Basketball Coach Floyd Stahl had said "tempering" was involved in Allen's transfer.

Football Lions

Shew Profit

DETROIT, Feb. 7 (AP)—Edwin J.

Anderson, president of the Detroit Lions pro football club, told a meeting of stockholders today the club showed a profit of $106,000 for the 1955 season.

This compares with a profit of $178,000 for the 1954 season when the Lions won the Western Division championship of the National Football League.

Four Redlegs Unsigned

CINCINNATI, Feb. 7 (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs received signed 1956 contracts today from three more players, leaving only four members of the 37-man spring training roster unsigned. Outfielder Stan Palys and pitchers Bud Podbielan and Tom Acker agreed to terms.

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Almost an stimulating and benefic aspects as yesterday's. Especially favored: family, home interests, industrial matters, government and military affairs.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Venus, Sun and Mars among favorably situated planets. This important day: A fine period for utilities, sales, sound buying, trades, industry, financial matters. Avoid extremes and all should go well.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Mental tasks, originality in advertising, promoting, etc. not as brilliantly favored as yesterday. Nevertheless, regular interests, work, study, banking, real estate, industry, mechanics can advance.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Your Moon and the Sun are in conjunction. Your efforts can be very beneficial and productive. Make the most of good offerings, advantages, and the mental and physical equipment to achieve an enviable position in this busy, competitive world. But you must recognize your assets and failures and correct the latter. You are equally encouraged to be lenient in choosing associates and, perhaps, having a too Bohemian attitude, generally is unwise. Be firm in striving to achieve, persistent in upholding right principles. Birthdate: John Ruskin, noted writer, critic; Wm. Tecumseh Sherman; Amer. Gen'l; Jules Verne, famous writer.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Highly stimulating. Productive influences today. Matters pertinent to government and our armed forces can improve, advance. Encouraging for useful and essential matters.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Similar to Gemini now. Why not try some new ideas and methods without neglecting regular duties? Experiment momentarily, competition, move ahead with faith. You have talents the world needs.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Similar to Taurus—with some fresh advantages and opportunities to show your skill and good judgment. Be acquisitive but, at the same time, be fair in all dealings.

Lower Prices Dominate Stock Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—The stock market moved quietly lower on balance today, but a handful of issues bucked the trend and closed with gains of a point or more. Losses rarely exceeded a point.

Passage of the natural gas bill by the Senate last night led to an interest in shares of companies with pipelines and big reserves of gas. By the close, however, the only sizable gain in this department was recovered by Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line, up 2 at 85½.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 50 cents to $176.90. The industrials lost $1.10, the rails gained 10 cents and the utilities declined 10 cents. A number of stocks were ex-dividend today, and this helped pull the average down.

Volume Declines

Statistics showed 369 advances and 532 declines out of 1,174 issues traded. Yesterday 1,169 issues were dealt in. There were 20 new highs for 1955-56 and 16 new lows.

Volume dwindled to 2,060,000 shares from 2,230,000 yesterday.

Gains of around a point were registered by Du Pont, Union Carbide, International Paper and Santa Fe.

Down one or more were Bethlehem Steel, Douglas Aircraft, American Tobacco, Norfolk & Western and Socony Mobil. Other losers included U. S. Steel, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Allied Chemical and New York Central.

In the over-the-counter market, the new Ford shares were quoted at 62½ bid, 63½ offered—new low since the shares were sold in mid-January at 64½.

The American Stock Exchange saw mostly lower prices. In the bond market, U. S. government issues were higher and corporates mixed.

Jap Noses 'Superior'

TOKYO, Feb. 7 (AP)—Keiichi Takasawa, a magazine illustrator, says Japanese noses are superior to European noses.

He told an interviewer flat noses are "more convenient in kissing," and "have stability and give a warm impression." Takasawa was objecting to a current feminine fad of raising noses by plastic surgery.

Alan Strassman To Compete In Finals For Scholarship

A 16-YEAR-OLD STROUDSBURG boy is one of 1600 finalists in the U. S. in a contest for 100 scholarships awarded by General Motors.

Alan Strassman, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Strassman, 312 Clermont Ave., is now a senior student at the Stroud Union High School in Stroudsburg.

Strassman achieved the position of honor through his showing in the college board exams given Jan. 14 at Lafayette College in Easton. He is also one of three local students who qualified for finals in the National Merit Scholarship examinations.

His major interest is in economics. He intends to go on to a graduate business school. In high school he holds membership in the rifle club, is on the student council and is president of the Kiwanis Key Club. He has been active in both the junior and senior class plays, is assistant editor of the school yearbook, "The Pioneer."

Awards in the General Motors competition are made first on the basis of ability; second on the basis of family need financially. Final

Speaker Chosen For Youth Rally

REV. TERRY Martin, of King's College, Brooklyn, N.Y., will speak at the State Belt youth rally Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the Pen Argyl Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Martin, a chalk artist, is known in Monroe County, having spoken at Pinebrook and at Youth for Christ meetings in East Stroudsburg. He recently appeared on a coast-to-coast television program.

The State Belt Youth Choir, composed of young people from a dozen area churches, will sing several selections. A social hour will follow the meeting.

Announcement of winners is expected in March, Strassman said.

Bigamist Says He Liked All Three Of Them

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—Juan Ramos, 27, a machinist, held in $1,000 bond today as a bigamist, was asked by the court why he married three women without obtaining any divorce.

"I liked them," said Ramos.

They Torqued it up for the BEST TAKE-OFF YET

FIRST THING you need in a car, of course, is power to spark performance.

And you get that in a 1956 Buick in plenty—from big 322-cubic-inch V8 engines that hit new highs in horsepower and compression.

But the power under the hood must be carried to the rear driving wheels in the form of twisting force on the drive shaft.

That's torque—the end-product of your transmission.

And the higher the torque build-up—the greater the "torque multiplication" in starting and accelerating—the better the getaway and response.

So if you want to feel take-off that leaves your breath behind you, come try a '56 Buick with Variable Pitch Dynaflo.*

For in this airplane-principled transmission, Buick engineers raised the ceiling on torque to give you the best getaway yet.

They did it with something they call "double regeneration"—a new way to make flowing oil add to its own velocity.

And when you use the full torque of a Buick beauty like the one pictured above, you're using the highest torque multiplication to be had in any standard-production American automobile today.

Come see for yourself what that means in new thrills and new safety.

You'll find brilliant new getaway response in the first inch of pedal travel—plus greater gas mileage to boot.

You'll find an electrifying new safety-surge of full-power acceleration when you floor the pedal and switch the pitch.

And you'll find this spectacular performance blended into the smoothest-traveling, the sweetest-riding, the highest-powered and the easiest-handling Buicks yet built. Drop in on us this week—today, if you can—and judge things firsthand.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.
